

The Lost Legend

The $100K Boys Club

The Lost legend is the culmination of the hidden working order —on a magical scale —of some of the greatest marketers in the past fifteen years. Within the legend, their “X” factor and uncanny and almost “weird” success, as their legend suggests, can be threaded back to a wisdom principle founded through Glenn W. Turner, Ben Franklin and ultimately through King Solomon who wrote the book of Proverbs.

Between 1996 and 2001 the assembly within the “Boys Club” are today’s who’s -who on the internet:

The Boys Club consisted of Joe Schroeder, who founded Star -Link Nation, Jimmy Vigilante and Steve Sigman (who founded today’s biggest social Networking social media program, Wowwza), Yanik Silver, who back during this adventure over a decade ago was polishing and pioneering affiliate marketing inventing content distribution, Rich Reckenbeil (Big-Action-Media) who during the “Boys Club” was pioneering software for what would later take over the net with “Straight-Line” downlines and of course there were Robert Blackman, who now has his own monopoly with “MLM Master -Mind” and Dale Calvert who back during those mysterious meetings was doing over $2M per month in sales. Today the flame remains lit by Diane Hochman.

Mike Litman was also a “fly on the wall” (and whose first e-mail name was given to him by Schroeder (litpower@aol.com) back during the days of the order and legend and who later went on to become #1 at Amazon with his “Millionaire” book. Coincidence or historical “$100K Boys Club” formula?

Therefore the question remains, “What was uncovered within the boys club and what was shared amongst them and traded back and forth within their chamber of capitalism that resulted in each one individually creating their own legend?” Some flagrantly say it was a fluke. Others, to this day, follow this group and participate in the philosophy and are teaching segments of “The Lost Legend.”

Note second generation (2005) Legend Mike Dillard. Note in his books how he mentions founder of the “Lost Legend” Joe Schroeder—MLM Big Fish himself, as his inspiration. Once again, coincidence or formula?

Also note the striking similarities between the staging and oratory prowess of a Diane Hochman (first generation) and second generation Pioneers such as Dillard, Drake and Kristen Darkenwald. Then you can compare back and see the similarities between Yanik Silver and Mike Litman. Were all of these man giants and future queens of the Internet also birthed by the hidden order discovered through Ben Franklin and King Solomon?

This all becomes certainly undeniable when you line up all of these market rulers and then . . .

 Thread all of their history back to the $100K Boys club from 1996 to 2001

 Notice and actually watch how each performs now to the degree of celebrity and Statesman

 Each now has their own empire and each has become a legend for pioneering something.

Coincidence? Clever story or was there in fact, a “code” they fashioned, as a collective mind, amongst each other and within the club, that has been lost into memorial and roots back to Ben Franklin and Solomon?

Moreover, when you stand back by today’s standards and study, say, a Dennis Karganilla, (of MLM Gold Mine fame), who used to hang out at the club (he did nightly calls for the club), when you stand back from these internet “names” one can’t help but ask, “What in blazes did they all secretly uncover as a one -mind that resulted in each of their own legendary success?”

Date Log: 1996

The $100K Boys Club

 In 1996 Joe Schroeder and Rich Reckenbeil were the first to pioneer and perfect what they call and now Mike Dillard teaches, “The Funded Proposal.” What Schroeder pioneered was how to make prospecting itself, the business.

Versus on how everyone else who made what they sold —vitamins—the business. Today Reckenbeil owns one of the largest lead companies in the industry BigActionMedia.net—and Schroeder teaches still today the art of “The Hunt.”

It is rumored that within the $2,041 THE VAULT (Schroeder’s latest collectable) that the manual called, “The Alchemy of Prospecting” decodes the “ROMAN EMPIRE” for the first time in the history of the Lost Legend.

 It’s an important historical side note, that while the club was working it all out at Schroeder’s affiliate site “MLM Big Fish,” each member was doing coaching calls, selling the course books and tapes and each one was actually pioneering, back over a decade ago, what they would later become famous for.

MORE MYSTERIES:

 Why Schroeder virtually vanished between 2002 and 2005 still remains a mystery. Some say he was burned out while the “Legend” is that he was alone and in prayer. Maybe true. Maybe not.

Then again, maybe this where his classic book on the subconscious mind “Super-Mind” came from.

Ever hear of a book called, “The Secret?” —That’s part of the anthology as well.

 Also not openly spoken about is the relationship between the “Boys Club” and Bob Proctor from “The Secret.”

THE LOST LEGEND SECRET CHAMBERS:

During the Lost Legend secret chamber of increase meetings, back in the old century, what few were even aware of, which today is fabled as the secret behind Schroeder, is that Joe was being privately coached by Proctor (remember, this is six years before THE SECRET was even written!) when proctor was the hired gun at ForMor Intl.

That’s the MLM Schroeder demonstrated “The Legend and Method” and became #1 out of 75,000 distributors.

Schroeder, like Franklin, has not much beyond an eighth grade education. He was classified as a “mis -fit” who couldn’t do fifth grade math and yet who grew up to write books and volumes on the subject of Prosperity Prospecting.

 Another chin puller is this, why did Schroeder fail to reveal, within the 3,209 pages of his various texts and varied sixty-two audio tapes, that he was privately mentored by Bishop Francis, who today has many church assembly’s (Livingston, NJ and who placed a bid on the house Joe now owns before Schroeder ever even located to Ledgewood, NJ) and who privately councils with the founder of “The Boys Club” at Schroeder’s home? Coincidence or Legend?

[No wonder Joe Schroeder calls himself, “The Preacher” of Plenty and the “Minister” of more.]

Just rewind and look at WHO were his own private teachers.

The Assembly

“All who would be free, MUST reveal their POWER!”

Caesar was Caesar before he was Caesar only because he gave himself the authority to stand HIGHER than average.

When MLM Big Fish .com opened in the later days of the last century, terms like “100% generic training” and “Funded Proposal” hadn’t ever been used before. And it was here, at Schroeder’s generic—open to the entire industry—were the club was officially recognized.

This platform and first community of “one minds” is where the assembled “Boys Club” flaunted the hidden order, openly taught “the code” on live calls within and to the members of the Big Fish DoJo.

Resources and Clues:

Apparently, those who demonstrate “The Legend” become industry famous and live a lifestyle most would consider a “dream life.” The actual tuition to study “The Boys Club” process is free. You can study all of the above names liberally and on the fly because they abound all over the internet.

However, if you would like the actual “Vault” and learn The Lost Legend (and own the scripts) the package is four manuals and six audio CDs for $2,041.

Wisdom School seminars are $1,000 and every six weeks.

For anyone who wants to attempt to decode this ancient discipline, study (1) Ben Franklin’s “Poor Richards Almanac” (2) Proverbs chapters 7 and 8 and (3) Chapters 6 and 7 of Wallace Wattles, “Science of Getting Rich.”

Empire Building

There Can Be No Question Between The Relationship of Those Who Studied With Joe Schroeder and Used The Spellbound Method (see Book #4 within the $2,041 vault) and How They Then Went on To Build Their Julius Caesar is arguably one of the greatest conquerors the world has ever seen. But few students of history, outside the field of Celtica, understand that Caesar makes one of the earliest records of Druids.

Caesar's account depicts the Druids from the eyes of a Roman. It is important when reading Caesar's account that he associates the Druids to what he knows and understands.

All of this information is contained in The Gallic War, written by Caesar himself during his conquest of Gaul. Its also important to remember while reading Caesar's writings that 300 years earlier Rome was conquered by the Celts under the leader Brennus.

* Note: Caesar did not endorse or seek to be like the Druids. The idea though is that he took the time to study and analyze the sect that originally spoke about "cause and effect" and empire building.

 As a body, we did not study Caesar back when we for formulating the Legend's discipline or working it out (1996 thru 2001) in the "$100K Boys Club." But I was. Secretly.

Caesar opens his discussion of the Druids by describing them as one of the two classes of dignity, the other being the knights (which are of course the warriors of the Celts).

The common folk, he says are less than nothing and "treated almost as slaves." (Caesar 335) He goes on to say that these Druids are "concerned with divine worship, due performance of sacrifices, public and private, and the interpretation of ritual questions: a great number of young men gather about them for the sake of instruction and hold them in great honor." (Caesar 335-337)

Next, Caesar describes the Druid role in the Celtic justice system. Druids, as described by Caesar, settle all disputes ranging from property disputes to murder. Druids are also responsible for the punishment to be issued to the criminal. Druids from different tribes are respected with the same power as Druids from other tribes, allowing them to punish foreigners.

What we decoded in the LOST LEGEND was a discipline of both marketing and philosophy, that if wielded persistently, one could amass his own vibrant organization.

This and much more we discuss in my latest and probably final class study on empire building within my "Vault."

What The Legacy of Star-Link Nation Added To This Industry:

- (1) FIRST to teach "branding." Evidence of this (1997) is the lineage and ORG. chart above.
- (2) FIRST to teach and preach (see Networker magazine 1996) "Retail, pay yourself then add MLM" = funded proposal.
- (3) FIRST affiliate program (see Dennis Karganilla 1998) called "Mad Pak." It was off line and used faxed -on-demand.
- (4) FIRST to use and brand what we now call "systems." First to bundle ads + web + auto -responder + in generic format.
- (5) FIRST re-seller program in our industry. What is common today industry wide we started back over a decade ago.
